

SIU 2018 Summer Field School in Historical Archaeology

Anthropology 496 - Six Credits – May 21 through June 29, 2018

The archaeology summer field school is a six-credit course designed to provide students with instruction in archaeological excavation and analytical methods. This six-week course will involve day-long investigations at two important historic period archaeological sites—Ft. Kaskaskia and Miller Grove—in southern Illinois. Ft. Kaskaskia is a French colonial fort (1759-1763) that is also associated with the Lewis and Clark Expedition (1803-1806). Miller Grove (1844-1930) is a freed slave, African-American community associated with the Underground Railroad.

Students will learn basic mapping, surveying, and excavation techniques. They will also have the opportunity to work with ground penetrating radar (GPR) and gradiometric instruments that can locate archaeological features below the ground.

WHY TAKE THIS COURSE?

- Earn SIX 400-level credits toward your degree
- No exams and no required readings
- Commute from Carbondale daily - do archaeology without having to travel far away
- Archaeology is so much fun!

COSTS

COSTS	USD
TUITION* (6 Credits)_____	1891.80
FEES
Materials/Transportation_____	300
Class Fee_____	50
TOTAL _____	2241.80

*All students (in-state and out-of-state) pay the same in-state rate.

No meals or lodging is included in the cost of tuition, but lodging options are available through the program. Please contact Dr. Wagner for details regarding subsidized or potentially free on-campus accommodations!

More details, including an application form, can be found at:
<http://cola.siu.edu/anthro/undergraduate/field-school>
 or email your questions to Dr. Mark Wagner at mjwagner@siu.edu.

